

Top Blokes Foundation's

Male Student Well-being Audit

The following statements will help assess your school's efforts to engage and support male student well-being. As you read each statement, try to think of typical situations and how your school usually responds, and place a tick in the relevant box. Once you finish, tally the number of ticks in each column and record it in the Engagement Score Matrix at the end.

Engagement of young males	Never	Rarely	Sometimes	Frequently	Always
We ask our male students how best to engage with them.
We involve young men in discussions that affect them.
We ask young men how to help resolve issues they are faced with.
We routinely seek male students feedback on issues impacting them.
We recognise and reward young men's efforts to make good choices.
We celebrate the contributions that male students make to our community.

Research and measurement	Never	Rarely	Sometimes	Frequently	Always
We make an effort to understand key cultural and social influencers that impact a young man's life.
We act on and implement feedback provided by male students (if appropriate).
We research issues and trends impacting young men and boys.
We incorporate evidence-based practice to improve boys' health within our school.
We have a sound understanding of the services available to support our male students.
We measure the effectiveness of strategies/programs that support male students.

Practice and implementation	Never	Rarely	Sometimes	Frequently	Always
We make reasonable efforts to adapt the environment to support young men's engagement and learning.
We have a set vision of and clear objectives for how we will improve our male students' well-being.
We have a set vision of and clear objectives for how we will improve male students' engagement levels.
We help young men to access opportunities to better themselves.
We actively secure resources to support our efforts with male students.
I'm proud of the strategies and interventions we use to support our male students.
We have appointed a Boys' Advisor within the school.
We work cohesively and collaboratively to address young male issues.

Engagement Score Matrix

Response option	Never	Rarely	Sometimes	Frequently	Always
Total number of responses

Top Blokes Foundation provides group mentoring programs for young males to improve their mental health and their relationships with the people around them. Delivered by qualified youth workers, the programs foster a safe space for boys to explore complex male health topics and enhance their critical thinking and decision-making skills, helping them cultivate health-seeking attitudes, habits and behaviours. Visit topblokes.org.au/our-programs for more information.